This project started from a silly idea and a paper and pen, and turned out to be a real outcome at the end. I developed the storyline and dialogs myself, and for the illustrations, I used Adobe Firefly to help me visualize what I was trying to show. Then using the firefly illustrations as a guide, and sometimes combining various AI generated images, I drew by hand every illustration, which then I vectorized using Adobe Photoshop and Adobe Illustrator to be able to put them into inDesign, where I edited the book and storyline.
